Force Development Initiative Aims to Strengthen Connection Amongst Guardians, Airmen

Space Base Delta 1 and the Space Force Deltas within Space Operations Command have and continue to play a vital role in the overall success of the U.S. Space Force mission. But one of the greatest taskers that Airmen and Guardians have while working at Peterson and Schriever SFB as well as Cheyenne Mountain SFS is learning the various missions that occur and how they correlate to the mission success of space operations.

Chief's Corner: CMSgt. Caleb Lloyd

As the United States Space Force continues to mature in its third year of life, we must all take a moment to pause and look at where we stand. Whether you are a Guardian or Airman enabling Space Force operations, we all play a crucial role in the success of this endeavor. I'd offer that in just three short years, we have fundamentally changed the way our nation views space operations, taking us from an incredibly benign view of the domain to one that is focused on the exponential growth of threats to our capabilities.

April's Outstanding Performer

USAF Senior Airman Dangelo Betancourt is SBD1's "Outstanding Performer" for April. Betancourt serves as an Operations Management Journeyman for the 50th Civil Engineer Squadron at Schriever SFB. Outside of processing and controlling CE work requirements, Betancourt also manages material acquisitions in contingency, wartime and peacetime situations, as well as maintaining accountability of resources, such as equipment and personnel.

2023 AIR FORCE ASSISTANCE FUND CAMPAIGN

The 2023 AFAF campaign started on 13 March and will conclude on 16 June. The AFAF campaign supports four charities that are dedicated to caring for Airmen and Guardians from induction through retirement and beyond. The goal for this year is $65,439 for Peterson SFB, Schriever SFB, Pituffik SB and our GSUs. Key Workers will be visiting your work centers to let you know all about the charities, answer any questions you may have, and provide you the opportunity to donate.
